

WHEN GRASS GROWS.

That is When Bushwhacker Garza Will Begin War.

ONE OF HIS LIEUTENANTS.

In an interview, Says the Mexican Revolutionists will Commence Operations on a Large Scale in a Few Weeks—Plenty of Munitions and Funds—Blow will be Struck on the Mexican Side.

LAREDO, TEXAS, Jan. 21.—I have had an interview with one of Garza's leading lieutenants. A three days' ride from this city took me down to a place near the rendado. The trip was made with a confidential friend of Garza. On arriving at the rendezvous I was received in due form by Garza's aide, and from him I learned a great many facts concerning the revolution.

The captain, who was in charge of a squad of twenty-two men, vehemently denounced the charges that they were bandits. They paid for everything they used, except in a few cases where ranchers in accord with the movement had donated supplies.

Garza, he said, represented a principle. He was a patriot, and was determined to overthrow the tyrannical yoke of Diaz, who was not only defying all civil law, but was holding an office to which he had not been elected. He dwelt with his people in the same manner as the czar exercises dominion over Russia. He had robbed and plundered the people in order to enrich himself and a few friends, and the time was now at hand to revolt.

"How many men has Garza?" I asked.

NOT READY TO STIKE.

"We have over fifteen hundred followers and adherents on this side of the river. All the people are with us as well as half the army. We are not yet ready to strike the final blow. It may be six or eight weeks before we absolutely declare war. All we are now doing is keeping the spirit alive among the people on both sides of the river, and when we do begin it will be on the Mexican side. We have officers and agents all through Mexico, and we have a wealthy and strong party behind us, so that we can not possibly fail. We also know every move made by both armies and keep fully posted on all that is occurring."

"From what source do you get your money?"

"That is something I decline to answer, except to say that we are not lacking in that line of war."

"Who will lead the revolution?"

"One of the most popular and capable men in the whole republic—a soldier and patriot."

"Then Garza has no eye on the leadership himself?"

"No, he does not himself expect to succeed Diaz, but he will have a big hand in the overthrow and will be properly rewarded."

"Is Sandoval connected with the present movement?"

"No, he is not."

"Do you contemplate early action?"

"Nothing can be done for a few weeks. Stock is all run down, the weather is bitter cold and no active work can be done in the field until grass sprouts for forage for both man and beast, as it is very scarce and high in Mexico. Arms and ammunition are easily secured, but not forage."

CLERICAL SYMPATHY.

"Is the clerical party behind the revolt?"

"All parties are interested in the movement, and as Diaz has been the mortal enemy of the clergy it is but natural to presume that we will have their sympathy."

"Has Garza any idea, as reported, of surrendering to the United States civil authorities?"

"That is ridiculous. He is enlisted for the war, and he will neither surrender nor be captured."

"Then you cannot tell me who is furnishing the money to conduct the campaign?"

"All I will say is that our friends are assisting us."

After remaining over night we started on our return, satisfied that the rumormongers on this side was over for the present, and that the lull is but the calm before the storm which may result in a long and desperate war.

All the ranchers on either side of the Rio Grande are his friends and none will give any clue as to his whereabouts. One of the guides piloting a guard of United States troops is a warm personal friend of Caterina Garza. Certain it is he has succeeded in eluding the officers, although some think they do not want Garza until they flush higher game—the parties furnishing the capital.

The Sam Wood Tragedy.

LIBERAL, KAS., Jan. 21.—A dispatch by courier from Hugoton states that the district court met there yesterday. Judge Botkin was absent and a member of the local bar was chosen special judge. Attorney General Ives, of Kansas, represented the state's interest in the case of the state against James Brennan, the slayer of Sam Wood. When the case was called, Attorney Ives announced that he was convinced that an unprejudiced jury could not be secured in Stevens county, where the killing took place, and moved to dismiss the case without prejudice. An order to that effect was issued and the sheriff was ordered to release the prisoner. Brennan has been confined in the jail at Hutchinson for safety.

In Danger of a Water Famine.

CHICAGO, ILL., Jan. 21.—With billions of gallons of pure water at her very doors Chicago is suffering all the inconvenience and perils of a water famine. The trouble extends over the entire city, including the suburbs. Ice driven in from the broad lake has settled so deeply at the source of supply, two or three miles out, as to reach and block the intakes. There is much apprehension of fire under these conditions and extra precautions are being taken to guard against it. Strenuous efforts are being made to remedy the trouble, and it is believed that it will be but temporary.

Died of Heart Disease.

CLAYTON, ILL., Jan. 21.—Considerable comment has been caused in railroad circles over the statement by Fireman Edward Ward, who was on the ill-fated west bound Washburn "cannon ball" express that dashed into the east bound express at Aladdin, near East Hannibal, about a week ago. Engineer Buchfield, of that train, was killed, and all the railroad men wondered how so careful a man as he could have run by the switch in fog as he did. Ward, who is recovering from hurts received in the wreck, says that Buchfield undoubtedly was dead in his cab before reaching the switch, having died of heart disease soon after leaving Hull.

BURNED AT SEA.

A Vessel Takes Fire and is Completely Destroyed With Her Crew.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The British steamer Imperial Prince, Captain Cox, from New York, January 4, for Leith, has arrived at Portland. Captain Cox reports that at 11 o'clock of the morning of January 16, when the steamer was in latitude 48° longitude 10° W, heavy clouds of smoke and a large flame were seen which twice shot high into the air as though thrown up by explosions. Soon afterward he perceived a large ship on fire about six miles distant from the steamer. A heavy northwest gale had been blowing for forty hours, and enormous seas were running occasionally with rain and hail squalls. The burning vessel had her stern sails furling and was hauled to. Captain Cox started for the ship, but in two hours' steaming made only five miles. Then a heavy squall occurred and the weather became so thick that the ship was hidden from view. When the weather cleared the ship had vanished. The Imperial Prince was steered over the spot where the vessel had been seen burning, but not a trace of her save some charred wreckage could be found, and she evidently had gone to the bottom. Captain Cox believes her crew perished, as it would have been impossible for a small vessel to live in the sea that was running.

"Fighting Bob" Endorsed.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Times publishes a dispatch to-day from its correspondent at Santiago, Chile, which states that Captain Evans, of the U. S. S. Yorktown, prudently ascertained that the Chilean government declined to accept Minister Egan's pretension that the American flag would protect the Chilean refugees, and he therefore carried them under the United States warship flag to Callao. The conduct of Captain Evans, the dispatch says, is highly appreciated in Santiago. It further adds that Minister Egan's hostile attitude in contrast to Captain Evans's policy. The rate of exchange has fallen 1d. at Valparaiso, owing to the threatening declarations of Minister Egan.

Constans Refused to Fight.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—M. Lauer, the Bonapartist member who was struck by M. Constans in the chamber of deputies Tuesday, chose seconds last night to wait on M. Constans. On arriving at the latter's house the seconds were refused admission. M. Constans, saying "He had been kept waiting too long, and he did not intend to be all his life at the disposal of M. Lauer."

Where Influenza Rages.

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—During the past week influenza has raged with renewed severity in this city, 531 deaths having been reported for the week as against 221 in the previous week. There are 6,584 patients in the hospitals, and all those institutions are overcrowded.

Sorrow's Soon Healed.

VIENNA, Jan. 21.—The announcement is made of the betrothal of Archduchess Stephanie, widow of Crown Prince Rudolph, whose death on January 30, 1889, caused such widespread scandal, to Prince Miguel, of Braganza.

CHILDREN CRY FOR PITCHER'S CASTORIA.

A TEARFUL ACTRESS.

How Adelaide Neilson's Tears Spoiled an Actor's Coat.

Chicago Times. "There never was an actress who could command her lachrymal glands as Adelaide Neilson could," said handsome Jack Barnes, of Jefferson's company, to a reporter. "I was her leading man at one time," continued Jack, "and I learned her peculiar faculty in this way to my cost. At that time I rather fancied myself, don't you know, in such parts as Romeo and the like, and I went to considerable expense in the matter of dressing. For Romeo I had some lovely dresses, all silk, satin and lace, and of the most delicate evening shades," as the ladies say. A delicate pale blue jacket was my favorite in one of the scenes between Romeo and Juliet, and I was awfully sorry I had it before the season was over. After a few performances I noticed that the beautiful pale blue silk on the front of my costume was stained in some way. There were long streaks in it which I could not account for.

"That night Neilson and I were in one of the pathetic love scenes of 'Romeo and Juliet.' Her head rested on my breast. She looked up, turned her face to the audience a moment, which at once burst into most tumultuous applause. When she turned her face toward mine again I saw the tears streaming down her cheeks. I glanced at my costume and saw the cause of the stains. Here were several wet streaks on the handsome pale blue silk made by Juliet's tears. I tried to hold her head away from me, but costumes had to be sacrificed to art, and when the season was over my costume was a striped instead of a plain blue silk, the change having been caused by Juliet's too elastic weeps."

Reappearances of a Dread Disease.

Troy Times.

The reappearance in Brooklyn of the deadly disease known as bilious pneumonia, which had not been known in this country since 1814, when it swept away 1,700 persons in Saratoga county, has revealed a singularly sorrowful incident. In the family of Dr. J. Barney Low four generations have been attacked, with fatal effect—the doctor's daughter, aged twelve years, his wife, his wife's mother and lastly the mother of his wife's mother. The disease is said to be nearly always fatal, and no certain cure is known for it, but it is not contagious and it can generally be averted by the ordinary prudence in eating, drinking and exposure to colds which is required to guard against the common form of pneumonia and the grip. It is mentioned as a singular coincidence that among the leading physicians of Saratoga county appointed to investigate the disease in 1812 was Dr. A. C. Barney, of Greenfield, a grand-uncle of Dr. Low.
